

INTRODUCTION TO PPS

PPS is a defence organisation, run for the benefit of members. The organisations main purpose is to provide members with assistance when complaints are received from clients and other professional protection matters.

Our members include trainees and qualified persons working in the talking and listening therapies. Although originally limited to members from the field of psychology, members now include counsellors, psychotherapists, art therapists, music therapists, drama therapists and similar related groups.

“PPS has been protecting professionals in the talking and listening therapies for over 40 years”

By joining PPS, a member benefits from a wider range of cover and indemnities than other organisations, by combining a membership contract with insurance policies. Membership provides as standard: Public Liability Insurance, Members Professional Protection Insurance (which provides more than standard professional indemnity policies, such as costs of disputes with professional bodies and defamation), a discretionary Trust Fund and legal & professional advice and assistance.

This provides a broader scope of cover as the member’s own Professional Protection Insurance policy is supported by our discretionary Trust Fund.

Another benefit of membership is that any insurance excess under the Members Professional Protection Insurance policy will be met by the Trust Fund reducing the financial burden of a complaint on a member even further. In addition PPS members may be able to access our Trust Fund when unforeseen circumstances arise.

“Any Professional Protection claim will be managed by fellow professionals who have an understanding of the field of talking and listening therapies.”

The reserves have been contributed by Members and are held in trust for Members by banks in the UK and Ireland. PPS Trust has a Board of Trustees whose role is to oversee any claims made to the Members Professional Protection Insurance policy and to the discretionary Trust Fund.

Elected Trustees are fellow professionals (current practitioners and retired) from the talking and listening therapies. Trustees will be elected every year from the PPS Trust membership roll. Members are therefore reassured that any Professional Protection claim will be managed by fellow professionals who have an understanding of the field of talking and listening therapies.
